

USO-Metro Honors Shining Stars at Annual Awards Dinner

Above, Country Music Star Craig Morgan and Miss America 2006 Jennifer Berry are all smiles at the USO-Metro 23rd Annual Awards Dinner. Photo courtesy of Reflections Photography.

The USO of Metropolitan Washington continued its long-standing tradition of honoring outstanding individuals for their public service, philanthropic contributions, and volunteer efforts at its 24th Annual Awards Dinner on March 22. Welcoming more than 600 senior military, civil, and industry leaders as well as an impressive group of special guests, USO-Metro paid tribute to our brave men and women in uniform as well as to those who improve the quality of life for service members and their families. The evening's special guests included country music star Craig Morgan, NFL Hall of Fame member and former Washington Redskins running back John Riggins, Miss America 2006 Jennifer Berry, Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Admiral Edmund Giambastiani, Surgeon General of the Air Force Lieutenant General George Peach Taylor, Vice Admiral Thad Allen, "America's Beloved Tenor" Daniel Rodriguez, and Superstars from World Wrestling Entertainment (WWE).

Commencing the festivities with a beautiful rendition of the National Anthem, Daniel Rodriguez set the tone for evening. The first honoree of the night, Senior Chief Musician Elizabeth A. Carroll of the U.S. Navy, was recognized for her extraordinary commitment to volunteering

(continued on page 2)

Above, USO volunteer Ben Blum and a member of the Wizards Dance Team present Valentines to Veterans at the USO-Metro Miles of Smiles event.

USO Presents Valentines to Veterans at Miles of Smiles

Over 100 veterans gathered at the 19th annual Miles of Smiles event at the VA Hospital on February 17th. USO-Metro has been delivering the "world's longest Valentine" to veterans at the VA Hospital for almost 20 years, in conjunction with the National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans Week each February. This year, USO-Metro presented veterans with Valentines from organizations such as Fort Meade Army Community Service, Cub Scout Pack 115, Manor View Elementary School, and Ft. Meade Child and Youth services, to name just a few.

"This is a heartwarming annual event that allows USO-Metro staff and volunteers to recognize the sacrifices of our nation's veterans," said Dale Jovero, USO-Metro Senior Director of Outreach. Over 35 USO volunteers donated their time to the event, chatting with veterans and working at the casino games set up for the vets' enjoyment. Three members of the Washington Wizards Dance Team joined in the festivities as well, taking time to visit with veterans at the Miles of Smiles event and in individual hospital rooms.

In This Issue:

USO-Metro Special Events.....1	USO-Metro Hospital Services.....5
USO-Metro Annual Awards Dinner.....2,3	Fundraising and Military Appreciation.....6
USO-Metro Airport Services.....4	USO-Metro News.....7
	How You Can Help.....8

USO Dinner (continued from page 1)

Above, The Honorable Don Winter prepares to present Senior Chief Musician Elizabeth Carroll with the USO-Metro C. Haskell Small Award. Right, Petty Officer Worley walks across the stage to present the Legacy of Hope award to the Miss America Organization as WWE Superstars look on. Photos courtesy of Reflections Photography.

with various fire and rescue squads. As this year's recipient of the USO-Metro C. Haskell Small Award for Volunteerism, Carroll has devoted anywhere from 20 to 100 hours a month since the early 1990s to her local fire companies, life support units, and ski patrols. She truly embodies the spirit of the C. Haskell Small award, given every year to an active duty enlisted service member who devotes him or herself to exemplary volunteer service. Accepting the award, Carroll declared, "I am very honored and humbled by this award. There are so many military members, and civilians, who deserve it as much or more than I do. I truly believe that the volunteer spirit is what makes this country so great, and I am just happy to be able to do my part."

The USO-Metro Annual Awards Dinner would be incomplete without a tribute to the most popular ambassador of the USO, legendary entertainer Bob Hope. USO-Metro honored the Miss America Organization as the 2006 recipient of the Legacy of Hope Award for consistently exhibiting a commitment to our men and women in uniform. The women of the organization have actively supported our service members for over 60 years—by entertaining and serving our men and women in uniform in World War II, Vietnam, and most recently in Operation Iraqi Freedom. WWE Superstars Mick Foley, Chris Nowinski, Ron Simmons, Jimmy Hart and Ken Kennedy presented the Miss America Organization with the Legacy of Hope Award for keeping the patriotic spirit of Bob Hope alive with grace, charm, and a selfless spirit that inspires us all.

Petty Officer Joseph "Doc" Worley, a Navy medic and honoree at the 2005 USO-Metro Awards Dinner, helped present the Legacy of Hope Award to the Miss America Organization. Representing all service members touched by the support of the Miss America Organization through USO-Metro, Petty Officer Worley's spirit and courage are truly staggering. Having lost a leg while serving in Fallujah, Worley received a Bronze Star in his wheelchair during the 2005 USO Dinner. Evidence of Worley's hard work and dedication was apparent at this year's Awards Dinner when he got out of his wheelchair to walk up the steps and across the stage to hand the Legacy of Hope Award to Miss America, bringing many in the audience to tears.

The awards continued with the USO of Metropolitan Washington Merit Award, presented annually to a celebrity who uses his or her status to give back to the community. The selfless spirit of country music star Craig Morgan is unrivaled in the entertainment industry. Morgan, who saw combat in Panama, was honored with the USO-Metro Merit Award for assisting others through his charitable works. When he was told about the award, Morgan warmly remarked, "To find out that I am being honored by the USO with their special Merit Award is just amazing. It is a privilege and an honor to be recognized by the USO."

In addition to raising funds and donating his time to many charitable organizations, Morgan is a passionate supporter of the military. This past year alone, he has traveled to Iraq for the USO Holiday Tour, performed at "Toast to the Troops," a benefit concert for the USO, and performed for the volunteers, spouses and members of the 101st Airborne Division at a USO Care Package "stuffing party" in Ft. Campbell, Kentucky. Morgan is also the spokesperson for America Supports You and he performed at the kick-off to their Pentagon concert series in May of 2005, which was hosted by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld.

Elaine Rogers, President of the USO of Metropolitan Washington, expressed her enthusiasm for USO-Metro Merit Award winner Craig Morgan, saying, "It's wonderful to see someone who has served his country having such success in his professional life, while at the same time giving back to the community."

During one of the evening's highlights, USO-Metro paid tribute to the United States Coast Guard for their extraordinary service to our country. "Every day, members of the Coast Guard save lives, assist people in distress, conduct search and rescue missions, seize illegal drugs, and respond to oil and hazardous chemical spills," said Rogers. "It is our honor to recognize the Coast Guard for all they do to protect us here at home—especially for their recent work with the victims of Hurricane Katrina. We owe the U.S. Coast Guard a huge debt of gratitude for their service." Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Edmund Giambastiani presented the USO-Metro Rising Star Award to Vice Admiral Thad Allen, representing the U.S. Coast Guard. VADM Allen will serve as the next Commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard, effective this May.

The evening continued with a tribute to the United States Air Force for their service to our injured military personnel serving in Operations Enduring and Iraqi Freedom. The individuals in the Air Force demonstrate great dedication and skill while performing their medical roles. Through their devotion and tireless efforts, Air Force doctors and nurses ensure that rapid, safe and compassionate care is delivered to ill and critically wounded members of our Armed Forces. USO-Metro presented Rising Star Awards to Major Erik Von Rosenvinge and the Surgeon General of the Air Force, General George "Peach" Taylor, who represented all who are serving in the Air Force's medical field. Major Von Rosenvinge demonstrated amazing courage by continuously providing life-sustaining care to his patients during an ongoing mortar attack in Baghdad.

The Special Salute also included Private First Class Marissa Strock and Sergeant Neil Duncan, who were both wounded while serving in the Army in combat overseas. While PFC Strock was serving in Iraq, she was wounded by an explosive device that ultimately led to the amputation of both of her legs. An IED (Improvised Explosive Device) wounded Sergeant Duncan while he was serving in Afghanistan.

USO-Metro also recognized Sergeant Michael Paul Donnelly of the U.S. Marine Corps for his extraordinary service. While serving in Iraq, Sergeant Donnelly was severely wounded by an explosive device. The quick reaction force that came to his aid included Hospital Corpsman Third Class Justin Ledsome of the U.S. Navy, who was honored at the USO-Metro Awards Dinner for saving Sergeant Donnelly's life that day and for helping to save dozens of other service members in combat. The Special Salute concluded with a special presentation, as Admiral Giambastiani awarded Sergeant Donnelly the Bronze Star.

The USO-Metro Annual Awards Dinner was a tremendous success again this year; USO-Metro raised almost $400,000 in one evening! The funds raised from the event will be used to support and enhance USO-Metro's many programs and services, including organizing celebrity visits with wounded patients at Walter Reed Army Medical Center and the National Naval Medical Center at Bethesda. The funds will also help support USO-Metro as the organization expands its services in the local area. In 2006, USO-Metro will open two new USO locations – a Lounge at Dulles Airport and an Outreach Center on Fort Meade in Maryland. USO-Metro will also build a more modern and conveniently-located USO Lounge at Reagan National Airport.

USO-Metro is always honored to recognize our service members and those who serve them through their involvement in charitable organizations, in our communities, and in our military.

Left, General Steven Boutelle presents Craig Morgan with the USO-Metro Merit Award for his philanthropic contributions. Below, Admiral Giambastiani gives the USO-Metro Rising Star award to PFC Marissa Strock during the Special Salute. Photos courtesy of Reflections Photography.

USO-Metro Plans to Expand Airport Services

The USO of Metropolitan Washington currently operates three airport Lounges in the Washington/Baltimore area, available to hundreds of thousands of military travelers annually. With USO Lounges already in place at Andrews Air Force Base, Reagan National Airport, and BWI Airport, USO-Metro looks forward to expanding its Airport services in 2006. With plans to relocate the USO Lounge at Reagan Airport to a new, larger space in a more prominent location within the airport, USO-Metro is thrilled to be able to assist even more members of the armed forces. USO-Metro has also recently unveiled plans to establish a new USO Lounge at Dulles International Airport. Northrop Grumman announced in April 2006 that it will join with USO-Metro as Founding Partner of the new 750 square foot USO lounge at Dulles Airport. The new USO lounge, expected to open later this year, will be strategically located on the arrivals level next to the international arrivals building with convenient access to ground transportation and the new walkway to Daily Garage 1.

"Having the support of Northrop Grumman is so exciting," said Elaine Rogers, USO-Metro President. "They are making it possible for the USO to bring a 'touch of home' to the thousands of military travelers and their families who pass through Dulles each month." In addition to Northrop Grumman, a number of companies have offered to help support USO-Metro's expansion plans. The spaces for the new USOs at Reagan and Dulles have been donated by the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority. URS Corporation, the company that donated the architectural design for the USO Lounge at BWI Airport over 5 years ago, has generously offered to donate the architectural designs for the new Lounges at Dulles and Reagan airports. USO-Metro would be unable to relocate the Lounge at Reagan Airport without the generous financial support of Corporate Partner Pitney Bowes. Additionally, Verizon has recently committed to supporting all three USO Airport Lounges, both financially and by providing Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) service at all three locations.

Over the last 30 years, the USO has had a presence at Reagan National Airport, serving thousands of men and women in uniform each year. Barbara Simpson, Volunteer Coordinator at Reagan National Airport, has enjoyed working with military travelers at the USO since 2001. An Army spouse who spent 30 years serving in places such as Japan, the Philippines, California, and Florida, Simpson grew into her current position. She started as a USO volunteer and now manages almost 30 volunteers.

Amenities in the USO Lounge at Reagan Airport include free refreshments and snacks, a TV with DVDs, reading material, and a computer with Internet access—but Simpson says one of the most requested items is an iron. "Quite often Marines will fly in with their uniforms packed in their suitcases and they have to go straight to work," said Simpson. "They want to make sure they look sharp, so we help them press their uniforms and freshen up." Simpson and the volunteers also help service members with directions to local military bases while providing them with free Internet access and a place to relax between flights.

USO-Metro will provide the same services to troops in the new USO Lounge at Reagan Airport, while also enjoying a full kitchen and quite a bit more space. Perhaps the most important upgrade in the new USO Lounge will be its location. The new Lounge, set to open in late 2006, will be located on the main floor of Terminal A in an area that receives much more traffic. The new space at Reagan Airport will certainly increase USO's visibility, encouraging more military travelers to stop by.

"USO-Metro is looking forward to establishing a presence at Dulles Airport, and we are excited to expand and relocate at Reagan National, said USO-Metro President Elaine Rogers. "We are delighted to have the opportunity to serve even more of our military men and women and their families in the DC area."

Above, the USO Lounge at Reagan National Airport hosted Marine reservists headed for Quantico last summer, pictured here with Volunteer Coordinator Barbara Simpson.

In light of the expansion plans at Reagan National Airport and Dulles International Airport, USO-Metro is in need of funding more than ever. If you'd like to make a donation to help support the new airport facilities, please visit our website at www.USOMetroDC.org. USO-Metro is proud to continue to offer the best programs and services to our military service members and their families!

Girls' Time Out Honors Local Wives and Mothers

Mrs. Lynne Pace (wife of Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff General Peter Pace), Mrs. Cindy Giambastiani (wife of Vice Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff Admiral Edmund Giambastiani) and USO-Metro teamed up to honor mothers, wives and girlfriends of wounded service members during a special Valentine's Day lunch on February 17. As part of USO-Metro's Girls' Time Out program, 18 women, mostly Army and Marine spouses, attended the special event at the Pace residence. The women were treated to a delicious lunch prepared by the Chairman's culinary staff, and were also pleased to be joined by patriotic jewelry designer Ann Hand, who presented each lady with a special "Dove Pin." A symbol of peace, Ann Hand's "Dove Pins" honor the sacrifices of each wounded service member as well as their loved ones.

Each attendee posed for a photo with General and Mrs. Pace, who thanked the ladies for their dedication and sacrifice. USO-Metro volunteer Lynette Planto escorted the ladies to the lunch, saying, "The fellowship and food were amazing. It was a wonderful experience."

Above, Cindy Gainey, Lynette Planto, and Shannon Viau enjoy a ladies lunch with General and Mrs. Pace in February.

Due to the popularity of the USO-Metro Girls' Time Out program at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, USO-Metro has recently expanded the program to the National Naval Medical Center at Bethesda. Offering the opportunity for wives, girlfriends, and mothers of wounded service personnel to meet and share their experiences, the Girls' Time Out program aims to support these female caregivers while helping them to find solace in those who are going through similar ordeals. For more information on the Girls' Time Out program, please contact Dale Jovero at (703) 696-2552.

USO-Metro Celebrity Visit Highlights:

Billy Joel invited 20 troops to attend his show at the Verizon Center on March 16. He welcomed the service members on stage when he performed the song "Saigon." The troops received a standing ovation from a very enthusiastic crowd. This warm response inspired the famous singer to invite veterans to all of his shows in the U.S. and Europe.

Dennis Farina visited the hospitals on February 4. A Vietnam veteran himself, Farina had a very special connection with the troops. After his visit he sent Law & Order T-shirts back to all the service members he met at the National Naval Medical Center at Bethesda.

Johnny Knoxville visited with wounded troops on February 21. His visit took place in the Physical Therapy room, which was packed due to the star's overwhelming popularity. "If you were at Walter Reed and you could get out of your bed, you were in PT, regardless of whether or not you had an appointment," said USO-Metro Director of Special Projects Ellen Brody.

Colin Quinn's visit on January 26 touched him so deeply that he arranged for Sirius radio to donate ten radios along with lifetime subscriptions to troops recovering at Walter Reed.

Below, Bill Engvall, Larry the Cable Guy, Jeff Foxworthy, Sergeant Michael Buyas and Ron White share a laugh during the autograph session at the Mologne House on March 19th.

Comedians Laugh it Up with Patients and Families

Members of the Blue Collar Comedy Tour—Jeff Foxworthy, Bill Engvall, Ron White, and Larry the Cable Guy—visited patients at Walter Reed Army Medical Center on March 19th. The comedians then went to the Mologne House on the Walter Reed campus for an autograph session. Dozens of patients and their family members streamed into the Mologne House for pictures with the famous comedians, who gladly posed with fans, signed autographs, and cracked jokes. Later, the comedians arranged for patients to receive free tickets and backstage passes to their comedy shows throughout the country.

USO Saluted with Chrome and Leather

Above, legendary talk show host Jay Leno signs the USO Custom made motorcycle to help raise funds for USO-Metro.

Over the last year, Ken Kaplan, owner of Devil Dawg Custom Cycles, has been designing and building a motorcycle to pay tribute to the 65-year history of the USO. Kaplan and his wife, who have also invited nearly 100 Walter Reed patients to share their suite at FedEx Field over the course of the last two years, are eager to salute the troops and the USO for the work they do. "Hosting the soldiers in the suite, I learned quite a bit about the wonderful things the USO does for the guys both while they're overseas and back at home," he said. "It's a message that far too few are aware of. I thought it would be a great thing to do a bike as a tribute to their work, and help publicize their work."

Kaplan designed the bike to be auctioned to benefit USO-Metro programs and services. Calling upon favors and friends, Kaplan ensured that the entire bike—including amazing art, gorgeous detailing and even a hand-tooled leather seat—was donated.

"The bike is so fabulous," said USO-Metro President Elaine Rogers. "We are honored and delighted by Ken's tribute, especially during the USO's 65th anniversary year. The selfless contribution of all the artists – from welders to illustrators – is amazing!"

The bike includes a photo of talk show host Jay Leno, who recently added his signature next to his picture on the motorcycle. The bike will appear at motorcycle shows and USO events until the fall of 2007, at which time it will be auctioned. Please visit the USO-Metro website (USOMetroDC.org) for more details about the auction as they become available.

USO-Metro Recognizes National Guard for Working with Youth

The USO of Metropolitan Washington joined with "The Apprentice" and West Point graduate Kelly Perdew, WWE Superstar Ken Kennedy, and "America's Beloved Tenor" Daniel Rodriguez to pay tribute to the National Guard's ChalleNGe Program on March 1 on Capitol Hill. The National Guard's ChalleNGe program is focused on redirecting at-risk youth, ages 16-18, toward a successful future. Each year, USO-Metro presents awards to the ChalleNGe programs whose corps members have shown outstanding improvement and success in one or more of the core components of the curriculum. This year's ceremony honored 11 of the 26 ChalleNGe programs in the United States. Congressmen and Senators from the winning states were on hand to salute the winning programs and recognize the impact they have on the lives of ChalleNGe graduates and our country's future.

USO-Metro honored the following programs during the ceremony: South Carolina Youth Challenge Academy at Camp Long, California Grizzly Youth Academy, Arizona Project Challenge, New Jersey Youth Challenge Academy, Oregon Youth Challenge Program, South Carolina Youth Challenge Academy at Columbia, Mountaineer Challenge Academy (West Virginia), Alaska Military Youth Academy, Wisconsin Challenge Academy, Montana Youth Challenge Program, Tarheel Challenge Academy (North Carolina).

Awards were presented for Community Service, Leadership, Academic Excellence, Life Skills, Job Skills, Health and Hygiene, Responsible Citizenship, Physical Fitness, Post-Residential Phase Execution, Progressive Program, and Best Overall Program. USO-Metro was honored to present the General Henry H. Shelton ChalleNGe Leadership Scholarships, funded by World Wrestling Entertainment, Inc. (WWE), to each of the winning ChalleNGe programs.

"The National Guard's ChalleNGe Program has truly made a difference in the lives of so many young people and their families," said USO-Metro President Elaine Rogers. "We are pleased to be able to honor these programs and these young people for the work they do."

USO-Metro extends a special thanks to WWE for generously donating the General Henry H. Shelton Leadership Scholarships. USO-Metro would also like to thank Microsoft and American Airlines for sponsoring the event.

Below, WWE Superstar Ken Kennedy (second from left), Senator Max Baucus (fifth from left), Apprentice winner and author Kelly Perdew (third from right), and LTG Steven Blum (far right) honor members of the Montana Youth Challenge Program for their extraordinary work. Photo courtesy of Paula Halvorson.

USO Celebrates 65 Years of Service

The USO, formed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to boost the morale of U.S. troops in February of 1941, is celebrating 65 years of service to our men and women in uniform. Today, the USO continues to provide morale-boosting programs and services, adapting to the changing needs of our men and women in uniform and their families. In the past few years, the USO has opened new centers in the United States and overseas, expanding its reach to service members and their families; opened centers in Kuwait, Afghanistan and Qatar to support troops participating in Operations Enduring and Iraqi Freedom; distributed more than one million prepaid international phone cards to deployed troops, and more than 700,000 Operation USO Care Packages to troops in the Persian Gulf Region and other overseas locations. To view a photographic history of the USO over the last 65 years, visit www.uso.org.

USO-Metro has three Airport Lounges and five Family Outreach Centers in the Washington metropolitan area that serve military travelers and DC area military families. The Outreach Centers organize programs and events for military families such as playgroups, crafts, and Parent's Night Out. Please contact one of the Outreach or Airport Lounges listed below for more information.

USO Lounge at BWI Airport, Lower Level, International Pier.
(410) 859-4425. Open daily 9:00 AM until 10:00 PM.

Airport Assistance Center at Andrews Air Force Base, Passenger Terminal. (301) 981-2525. M-F 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM.

USO Lounge at Reagan National Airport, Terminal A, Upper Level.
(703) 419-3990. Su-F 9:00 AM to 9:00 PM, Sa 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM.

Woodbridge Run Family Outreach Center, 1400 Eisenhower Circle, Woodbridge, VA. (703) 494-5576. M-Th 10:00-3:00.

Indian Head Family Outreach Center, Naval Surface Warfare Center, 14 Strauss Avenue, Indian Head, MD. (301) 744-6713. M-Th 10:00-3:00.

Ft. Belvoir Family Outreach Center, Sosa Recreation Center, Ft. Belvoir, VA. (703) 805-2464. M-Th 10:00-3:00.

Bellevue Family Outreach Center, 1 Cargo Court SW, Bellevue Navy Housing, Washington, DC. (202) 404-6854. M-Th 10:00-3:00.

Ft. Myer Family Outreach Center, Bldg. 405, 228 McNair Road, Ft. Myer, VA. (703) 696-2552 or 3279. M-F 9:00-5:00.

USO-Metro administers the TICKETLINE, through which tickets are available to the local military community. Each quarter, USO-Metro distributes thousands of tickets, valued at tens of thousands of dollars, to concerts, theatre, and sporting events. To donate tickets, call Dawn Ruth at 703-696-3279. For more information, or to obtain tickets, please call the USO-Metro TICKETLINE at 703-696-2551.

USO-Metro News

Office Manager Alyce Callahan and Special Events Program Assistant Erica Chapman both celebrated their anniversaries with USO-Metro in February. Callahan has been with USO-Metro for two years and Chapman has been with USO-Metro for one year.

USO-Metro is also pleased to welcome the following new members of the Board of Directors, pictured left to right Bill Sapp, representing Don Herring of AT&T; Mr. Gary Luczak, URS Corporation; Mr. Sam Jones, Federal Products Compuware Corporation; USO-Metro Board Chairman John Marselle, Sun Microsystems; Mr. Thomas Colella, Korn/Ferry International; and Mr. Mike Carpenter, McAfee.

of Metropolitan Washington

P.O. Box 1710
Ft. Myer, VA
22211-1101
(703) 696-2628
(703) 696-2550 (fax)
www.USOMetroDC.org

NON - PROFIT ORG
US POSTAGE PAID
ARLINGTON, VA
PERMIT NO. 39

How YOU Can Help USO-Metro

For more information about any of the opportunities below, please visit www.USOMetroDC.org and click on Donate.

Be a part of the Booz Allen Classic, June 19-25, 2006:
Whether you pledge a penny (per birdie -- about $16) or become a platinum sponsor (includes sky box tickets and more!), your support of the USO through Birdies for Charity is a fun way to support USO-Metro's important programs and services.

- ★ Donate products:
We are in need of a number of items for our hospital programs, outreach centers, and headquarters offices. Please visit our website to view our product wish list.
- ★ Donate your car:
You can donate your automobile to raise funds for USO-Metro. All vehicle donations are tax-deductable and you can even arrange to have your automobile picked up.
- ★ Shop online:
Shop as you normally would at hundreds of popular retail websites and a percentage of your purchase will go to USO-Metro.
- ★ Recycle your printer toner and ink:
Help the environment and USO-Metro at the same time by recycling your printer toner and ink. A monetary donation to USO-Metro will be made for each recycled toner cartridge!

Apply for a USO credit card:
Pentagon Federal Credit Union is offering a convenient way to help support our troops. You do not need to be a member of the military to apply for this card.